Navy Day Program Is Completed

In celebration of Navy Day, October 27, the U. S. S. Columbus, one of the newest heavy cruisers, will reach the port of Monterey Friday, October 24, and will remain until October 28th, Allen Knight, co-ordinator of program arrangements under Alfred C. Castle, general chairman of the Navy Day Celebration plans, announced this week.

There will be plenty of small boats at the wharf to transport the public to the cruiser, and everyone will be allowed to go aboard. Capt. Frank T. Watkins has made available for a big dance Saturday night, the former Bali Room of the new Del Monte Training School, and the Carmel Red Cross will gather up dancing partners for the Navy men. Of the 1000 enlisted men and 60 officers on board about two thirds of their number will be given leave for the dance.

The Mayor of Monterey will hold a reception for the officers of the Columbus at Memory Garden, the officers will reciprocate with a buffet dinner on board. Winners and runners-up of the school essay contest on Why We Celebrate Navy Day will be entertained on board at a special dinner in their honor.

Colorful Movies, Informative Talk On Wildlife, Conservation In Alexander Sprunt's "Tour"

The Audubon Society Screen Tours will open Wednesday, October 22, in Sunset Auditorium, with the presentation of Alexander Sprunt, Jr., who will give a lecture on Our Living Earth, illustrated with colored motion pictures.

F. S. Ruth, past president of the society, zoology instructor at the Monterey Peninsula College, stated, "The popular life science lectures will not be given until next spring, and therefore it is especially important that all who are interested in wild life and conservation should attend this Screen Tour series in order to hear five nationally known speakers and see outstandingly beautiful pictures of the resources of this country."

ALEXANDER SPRUNT

Alexander Sprunt, Jr., who will appear next Wednesday evening, is a field naturalist and photographer widely recognized for his book, Dwellers of the Silences, and scientific articles in various periodicals as well as for his brilliant addresses under the sponsorship of the National Audubon Society. He will give a talk on the meaning and importance of conservation. In dramatic motion pictures he will show the formation and growth of the soil, the building of a plant from air, earth and water, animal life inter-relations, and the intelligent use of natural resources. His pictures include magnificent studies of birds, flowers and nature backgrounds.

This week is the last chance to obtain season tickets for the five events, at $2.40 for adults and $1.20 for students, at the Abinante Music Stores of Carmel and Monterey. Mail orders should be addressed to the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society, Box 2381, Carmel. Tickets for individual lectures may be obtained at Sunset Box Office the night of the presentation.

Gallery Receives Two Handsome Gifts

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur William Kronholm have presented the Carmel Art Gallery with an antique French telephone which once was part of the equipment of an old chateau they owned in France, and now they are planning to present an antique love seat also. There are no strings on these gifts and the Association may dispose of them in any way they wish.

Another generous contribution has come from Mrs. Marjorie Schiffeler, who some months ago sold her home, Moon Gate, to Colonel Philip Schneeberger. It is an Italian bronze on marble base, by Ambiosi, who was the official sculptor of the Vatican 25 years ago when Mrs. Schiffeler's mother, Mrs. Wintermute, visited in Rome. This gift is given in the name of Mrs. Wintermute, and again the donor explains that it may be disposed of at the discretion of the association members.

Clark Lee To Address Club On Hawaiian Statehood

Mrs. H. J. Powers, Chairman of the Carmel Woman's Club Book Section, announces that Clark Lee, foreign correspondent and author who now makes his home on the Monterey Peninsula, will address the section's first meeting this season, Monday afternoon, October 20, on the subject Hawaiian Statehood.

Mr. Lee lived in Hawaii ten years and made a close study of the political, economic and social conditions in the Islands. Mrs. Lee is the former Princess Lilio, a niece of the last monarch to rule over Hawaii, Queen Liliuokalani. Mr. Lee has been Far Eastern correspondent for the Associated Press and the International News Service and is the author of several books on the Pacific region. His "One Last Look Around" was based on an extended trip made just prior to the war.

The Book Section meeting will be held in the Girl Scout House, Sixth and Lincoln Streets at 2 p.m. and will be followed by tea.

P. C. Chairman Pleased With Lot Freezing Ordinance

"The City Council should be commended for passing the freezing ordinance," Chairman P. A. McCreery said at the Carmel Planning Commission meeting Wednesday when informed of the city council's action in passing an interim ordinance last week prohibiting the issuance of building permits on lots smaller than forty foot frontage.

The interim ordinance will give the council breathing space until it can decide what to do with the string of 25 foot lots on Dolores Street that might blossom into auto courts unless proper restrictions are devised.

The planning commission approved blue prints for a four unit apartment building on East Dolores Street between Fourth and Fifth, presented by W. H. Dixon. It also gave Joe Oliviera permission to construct a room for toilet facilities adjoining the Village Cab structure on the corner of Dolores and Seventh. To Building Inspector Floyd Adams' request for a report on his suggestion that fire district 2 be extended to include 2-A Peter Mawdsley said the council was considering it.

November 19 was set for a public hearing on two ordinances, one defining a lot of record as a parcel of land of not less than 2500 square feet and transient use as less than a week's occupancy; the other allowing philanthropic, educational, religious and fraternal organizations to construct their buildings in the residence zone.

Don't Shoot Ducks On Seaside Ponds, Carmel River Mouth, D. A. Warns

Duck season opens Tuesday. There are Monterey County people who are going several hundred miles away to places like Tule Lake at the top of the state to shoot ducks. These far travelers will continue to be on good terms with District Attorney Anthony Brazil. On the other hand, there may be some lazy individuals who prefer to step out of their own back door or drive five or six miles from their garage to pick off ducks at will at the Carmel River mouth, where there are a few, or Seaside Ponds, where there are hundreds of fat mallards, teal, shovellers and pintails. These people are going to get into trouble.

"I want to remind hunters that the Monterey Peninsula Game Refuge still exists," District Attorney brazil told the Pine Cone yesterday. "Hunting is prohibited within the refuge. The sheriff's deputies will arrest any violator and I will prosecute."

It is necessary to remind people that the refuge still exists because of the California Fish and Game Commission's bungling attempt to eliminate it several months ago by opening it to hunting. Brazil says the the commission can't open the refuge to hunting when it's against the law to fire a gun in a refuge, and since the refuge law provides that the county officers may enforce the refuge laws, Brazil proposes to enforce them.

School Board Prepares To Up Teachers' Pay

Another increase in salaries of both teachers and non-certificated employees of the Carmel Unified School District is contemplated by the board of trustees. A committee of Dr. L. A. Williams, trustee, Superintendent Stuart Mitchell, Sunset Principal Arthur Hull and two teachers yet to be named, was directed by the board at its meeting Tuesday night to revise the teacher salary schedule for the Carmel School System. Mrs. Anita Dormody, trustee, Superintendent Mitchell, a custodian and a member of the clerical staff, were appointed to work out a series of increases in the salaries of the non-certificated employees.

The action came as a result of the announcement of Superintendent Mitchell that he had had difficulty in hiring new teachers in June because Carmel teacher salaries were lower than in comparable communities.

"And when we raised salaries in February our schedule was among the highest in the State," one board member commented.

Among other matters disposed of by the board was the final formality of acquiring four and a half acres south of the tennis courts from W. L. Hudson for $3750 for a baseball diamond. Superintendent Mitchell was authorized to arrange for ditches to be dug around the excavation for the swimming pool to prevent erosion during the rainy season, and to have installed a 250 foot tile drain from the corner of the gymnasium to the ravine to carry off storm waters.

Congresswoman Asked To Address Carmel Demo Club

Plans for the November meeting of the Carmel Women's Democratic club center around the possible visit of Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas. Mrs. Douglas has promised tentatively to address the Club in November unless a special session of Congress is called in which case she will be on the job in Washington.

The club changed the date for their October meeting from the usual Friday, to Wednesday last week, in order to listen to President Truman's address in honor of National Democratic Women's Day. Since the President spoke at 10:15 a.m. the Club members brought lunches and gathered around the big table after the broadcast for discussion while they munched. Coffee was provided by the Club and fruit and doughnuts by Mrs. Paul Law, Monterey County Central Democratic Committeewoman.

Mrs. Millard Klein presided in her official capacity of Chairman for the Winter Quarter. Acting Treasurer Olive Swezy reported on finances in the absence of Treasurer Florence Brown. Secretary Edna Owings read the minutes of the previous meeting and reported on correspondence during the month. Mrs. Barbara Newberry reviewed the talk given by Robert Hale of United World Federalists, Inc. to a group at the home of Mrs. Joseph Schoeninger the previous week. Spontaneous discussion on all subjects ranging from local to national and international followed.

SAN JOSE TECH PLAYS CARMEL TOMORROW

A widely heralded San Jose Tech football team which is being sidestepped by the stronger high schools in the San Jose area will provide the competition for Carmel High School tomorrow afternoon. The Tech boys are in their second season of football and will field a complete veteran aggregation. They came very fast last season, and toward the end of the campaign were knocking over the best they had in the Santa Clara Valley League. So far this season the Mechanics have engaged in two contests and have a 500 average for their efforts. They manhandled Gilroy by a 34-6 count, and earned a moral victory over South San Francisco, although they were beaten 7 to 6. South San Francisco played Watsonville a 7-7 tie the previous week. San Jose operates from the T formation and have one of the finest T quarterbacks in the prep ranks cracking the whip over 3 fast and rugged backs. Fredericks, Mechanic quarterback, has completed 18 out of 25 passes attempted this year and should provide a good test for the Padre pass defense.

The Padres will be at full strength for the first time this season, having recovered from a series of minor ailments which slowed them up in the Campbell game. With the PG game being rained out, the locals have had ample time to recuperate from sprained ankles, sore shins, and tender ribs. The Padre running attack has functioned in good fashion against Gustine and Campbell, but their passing game has backfired for touchdowns the wrong way. Heavy passing drills during the past weeks have ironed out the rough spots in the aerial offense and quarterbacks Warner, Hare, and Byers have been hitting the targets.

RAIN WINS PACIFIC GROVE-CARMEL GRID SPLASH

Last Friday night's pigskin natural between the Padres of Carmel and the Breakers of Pacific Grove was broken up by a more potent team—the elements. Fans, players, and officials were willing to brave a downpour, but the lights on the Pacific Grove field weren't up to the occasion. After several bulbs had broken from exposure to the rain, officials decided that playing a game with so much natural rivalry should be done when the players could see each other. Players of both teams were bitterly disappointed that the game washed out, but they will have a chance to clash on Armistice Day. A week rest will help both teams as they will tangle with tough opposition tonight and tomorrow. Pacific Grove tackles a mighty rough King City eleven, while Carmel hopes to hold off a touchdown making outfit from San Jose Tech.

PADRE LIGHTWEIGHTS DOWN SALINAS BABES, 13-6

Led by the swivel-hipped running of Walter Frey, the Carmel limiteds overcame a 6 point deficit to finally whip the Salinas lights by a 13-6 count. Salinas started out with a vengence and threatened to make a rout of the game. On the second play from scrimmage, the Salinas left halfback rounded the Padre flank and ranked up 6 points for the Cowbabes. The locals dug in after this show of power and sliced through the slop for two tallies of their own. One touchdown came after a 63 yard gallop by Frey. The entire Padre lightweight squad turned in creditable performances and the experiences they are getting in these games will prove mighty valuable in future grid encounters. Even with a wet ball, Jim Hare, handled the T like a veteran and showed a good passing arm on several occasions. Lee Laugenour, Bernie Adams, Pierre Boutet, and Frank Timmins stood out in the Carmel line.

PISTOL CLUB REVIVES

A genuine old timer among local institutions, the Carmel Pistol Club, is in the process of reanimation this month. At a meeting held Tuesday night plans were made for a membership drive to take place before the next meeting, on the second Tuesday in November, at Comstock's office. Men interested in joining the twenty-five year old club should get in touch with Hugh Comstock, Art Hull or Gil Severns.

LAMB TO DEFEND TITLE

Woody Lamb of Cypress Point Club, Monterey Peninsula Golf Champion, will defend his San Jose pro-amateur golf championship at San Jose Country Club next Sunday. Lamb won his championship in '46, teamed with Dean Cole, A. E. Shephard and Eli Barteau.

All the better pros of northern California will be playing in the championship, including Newt Bassler of Carmel.

ATTENTION BALLPLAYERS!

The Winter Hardball League is getting under way again. The Carmel American Legion is entering a team again this year and would like anyone who is interested in playing to report to the Monterey Baseball Park on Sunday morning at 11:00 a.m. Or you may contact Charles Childers, manager of the team, or Jack Giles, coach.

$4,500 Navy Reserve Payroll Distributed

Tuesday evening was the first pay-day of the United States Naval Reserve organized unit of the Monterey Peninsula. A payroll of about $4500 was distributed to officers and men, from apprentice seamen to Commanders, each man receiving from $30 to $120, depending upon his attendance since July 20, when the unit was activated. Each man is paid a day's salary, according to the Navy pay scale, for each 2-hour drill meeting he attended during the quarter. The next pay-day for the Reservists will occur in January.

The Navy has allocated $69,000 for use in reconditioning the building taken over for the Naval Reserve Armory between Monterey and Pacific Grove, and the work entailed will give added conveniences to the Reservists in their gunnery, radar, electronics and other training classes.

"The Secretary of the Navy is encouraging expenditures for the Reserve units," said Commander D. R. Jeffers, "inasmuch as this year, out of a Navy personnel of 400,000, there will be 200,000 men discharged at the expiration of their enlistment terms. The need for a strong Reserve force is felt throughout the nation because of our present-day foreign policy. Facilities must be at hand for the use of all these ex-Navy men who will wish to continue in training, in case of another national emergency."

SPANIEL CLUB

The Monterey Bay Spaniel Club will hold its first Obedience Training Class Monday evening at the Pacific Grove High School, for any dog lovers who want to learn from an experienced dog trainer. Part of the demonstration will be presented in moving pictures.

HOME BUILDING ACTIVITIES

Building permits were issued for $65,550.00 worth of construction by City Building Inspector Floyd Adams last month. They are all either for new residences or additions and alterations on existing structures.

Medea Opening Well Received In Philadelphia

Presentation of Robinson Jeffers' adaptation of Euripides' drama, Medea, in Philadelphia, October 6, won praise from the Philadelphia Inquirer and the Evening Bulletin critics.

"As revived last night in the cadenced and winged prose of Mr. Jeffers and colored and defined in all its ferocity by his rich dramatic immagination, Medea's story of a woman scorned and the fury of her vengeance seems to have lost little of its pity and terror in 2400 years," said Edwin H. Schloss. "The tense absorption of last night's audience and the cheers were evidence that its magic has not turned grey with the centuries."

R. E. P. Sensenderfer said, "It is difficult to conceive how playgoers could be more deeply moved or aroused to such enthusiasm as they were by Judith Anderson last night at the Locust Theatre. She actually had them cheering . . . Robinson Jeffers tells the tragedy in free but singularly rhythmic verse. He catches the clarity and simplicity of the original in stately but pellucid English."

The play will open in New York after its run in Philadelphia, and Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Jeffers plan to be present for the first night.

Carmel vs. Carmel-by-the-Sea; The Post Office Wins And Why

BY CAROL CARD

Every few years Carmel-by-the-Sea is jolted rudely out of its complacent sense of World-Fame on learning that a letter addressed to some local resident has been returned to the sender marked "No Such Post Office." Can it be that anyone never heard of us — even the greenest of railway mail clerks? Never heard of Carmel-by-the-Sea, the Famous Art Colony? Impossible! A puzzled and indignant citizen makes due inquiry at the post office and learns, to his surprise, that although the village is legally Carmel-by-the-Sea, its post office is just as legally Carmel and no more. So he is left to wonder, and to conclude that the Post Office Department is a little queer.

The first hint of the reason for this odd state of affairs came to light several months ago in the old files of the Pine Cone, in an article entitled "White Oak Inn Was Once Carmel," which appeared September 5, 1941. It told an interesting tale to the effect that Carmel Post Office was established originally in Carmel Valley at the headquarters of Los Laurelles Ranch, now the White Oak Inn. This was its location until 1903 when it was transferred to the new, but fast-growing community of Carmel-by-the-Sea which was in need of post office facilities. Unfortunately, this juicy bit of local history was almost completely innocent of dates. So with curiosity screwed to the sticking point we went to the post office early one morning, before the mob had gathered, to ask for the date of its first establishment. The clerk whom we buttonholed informed us that the post office employees themselves would like to know that. The matter of when and where Carmel Post Office was originally established was obscure and had been the subject of some speculation. So we wrote to Washington, D.C.

Last week came the answer, with information gleaned from the records of the Post Office Department, 1789-1930, now in the National Archives. Carmel Post Office was established October 30, 1889. Apparently the confusion between Carmel Post Office and Carmel-by-the-Sea began as soon as the latter came into being, because by September 26, 1903 the name of the post office was changed for some reason, to Tularcito. It never operated under that name, however. Then on November 30, 1903, Carmel Post Office was transferred from Los Laurelles Ranch to Slevin's store in Carmel-by-the-Sea, where it opened for business December 5th.

With our post office thus considerably older than the Village itself, it seems that we must allow it to retain its nonconforming name. And uninformed mail clerks will be perfectly within their rights when they send back letters addressed to Carmel - by - the - Sea, with a curt "No Such Post Office."

Charles Jaquith

Charles A. Jaquith, 75, a resident of Carmel for 41 years, died at the County Hospital yesterday, after an illness of several weeks. He is survived by his wife, Sarah Alice Jaquith. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 in the Paul Mortuary in Pacific Grove.

Mr. Jaquith was a native of Geary County, Kansas, but had travelled commercially on the west coast for some years before settling at Dolores and 10th Street in Carmel. His mother was an invalid there for about twenty years, during which time he nursed her. Since her death he has been known as the "only man with a scooter" and has supplied his friends with flowers and vegetables from his garden, his cheerful greeting at the Post Office being recognized as part of the Carmel tradition.

Portal to Portal

By FLORA HARTWELL

The agitation recently about portal to portal pay brought to my mind an incident which occurred in one of the far distant yesterdays of old Carmel. It was in the good old days of Carmel-by-the Sea—in the days of the artist colony where George Sterling, the poet, reigned supreme. It was in the days of the Forest Theatre, when the corpulent old town butcher, engrossed in learning his Falstaff lines for a Shakespearian performance, was oblivious to one's arrival to purchase lamb chops. It was in the days before workmen here became labor-union conscious, that there lived directly across the street from us a skillful, elderly fix-it man who proved himself one pace ahead of the portal to portal policy of the unions in 1947.

One night I found that our front door lock would not hold. Early next morning before our neighbor had left for his shop, I knocked at the door of his home and told him of our trouble. Soon he came over and by a few turns of his screwdriver, the job was done. His charge was quite disproportionate to the time consumed.

When I expressed my surprise, he explained,

"It's like this lady. I had only to cross the street from my house to do this job, but I'm charging for the time it would have taken if I had been up at my shop and had had to walk down to your place to do it. Do you understand?"

His business acumen was so far ahead of even the recent portal to portal policy that my logical mind could not quite take it in. However, I had my lock restored. He had his pay. No more thought was given to the matter.

Little did I realize the economic revolution fore-shadowed by this simple transaction!

Who Says An Artist Can't Be Practical? Temianka, Violinist, Is Quartet Business Manager

The first violinist of the Paganini Quartet, who will appear at Sunset Auditorium, October 26, in a concert for the benefit of the Monterey County Symphony Association, is Henry Temianka, the business manager of the Quartet.

He is of medium height and stocky build, bristling with energy, and in spite of his sharp wit he has the kindest face in California today. He is free from sentimentality but has the depth of sympathy that is not diminished by his logic, and though his "gray eyes growing blue" are outstandingly direct, they nevertheless reflect some of the sadness that betrays his love for many people.

Henri Temianka is the son of cosmopolitan parents, musicians, who happened to be in Scotland at the time he was born, and almost immediately he set out on his travels through Europe. He spent his childhood in Holland and studied at the conservatory in Rotterdam. When he was fifteen years old he and his violin were sent to Berlin, where he entered the Musical National Conservatory, and two years later he went to Paris to study under individual masters. When he was eighteen, one day in Holland he played before Karl Flesch, the famous Hungarian violin teacher, and that event brought about his opportunity to come to the United States.

When Henri Temianka enrolled at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia with a three-year scholarship, he had begun to integrate all his years of training with his budding maturity. Before he graduated in 1929 he had made his debut in New York in a Town Hall Concert, before many impressive personages, including Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bok, who had been responsible for the founding of the Curtis Institute, and it was a memorable evening for the young violinist. In 1930 he first appeared in Europe, and as time went on he was frequently invited to play as soloist with the great John Barbirolli, George Szell, Vaughan Williams, Sir Adrian Boult, Fritz Reiner, George Schneevoigt; with the Amsterdam Concertgebouw Orchestra and the Philharmonic Orchestras of the following cities: Warsaw, The Hague, Rotterdam, London, Brussels, Monte Carlo, Geneva, Stockholm, Copenhagen and Helsinki.

In 1935 he made a six-weeks tour of Russia, at the invitation of the Russian government, and subsequently repeated this engagement several times. Later, in London, he organized the Temianka Chamber Orchestra with which he toured for three years.

During the war Temianka served with the Overseas Division of the OWI as Senior Foreign Language Editor for the Far East and for the French and Dutch-speaking territories. In doing this he had to sacrifice his musical career for the duration, and to make use of his language facility. As a political commentator his fluency in many languages became a priceless asset in international broadcasts.

It is still an asset, as a matter of fact, when the Paganini Quartet tours Europe. One of his colleagues exclaims: "He is wonderful! He never forgets anything, and wherever we perform he knows the language of that country and can take care of everything for us."

The Paganini Quartet was formed in 1946, when Robert Maas, cellist, Gustave Rosseels, second violinist, Robert Court, violist, and Henry Temianka, violinist, who had been friends for many years, agreed that this would be the answer to their dreams. They chose this particular name, and later named their summer home in Carmel Highlands the Paganini Villa, because Mrs. W. A. Clark secured for them four Stradivarius instruments which had belonged to Paganini.

Mr. Temianka admits that Emil Herrman of New York wrote him when these four extremely valuable instruments had been brought together. "But I threw the letter away after reading it," he says, "for there seemed no possibilty of our obtaining them at the very high price he named."

Robert Maas, however, mentioned the matter in conversation with Mrs. Clark, and she purchased them. Inspired by instruments of such excellence, and with the momentum of the great tradition, the Paganini Quartet has already won recognition throughout the world. Late in October they will set out on their second annual tour, which will include 80 concerts in many of the cities of this country and Europe.

And Henri Temianka of the pale blue eyes and iron-gray hair will be making their travelling arrangements and handling their fees and taxes, with a punctiliousness which belies all that has ever been said about erratic or absent-minded artists. He is an example of the disciplined mind which finds joy in the precision great music demands of the interpreter. After every piece that the friends play at rehearsal or for the public he looks around at them, grinning like a boy, because the strenuous work has whipped up his enthusiasm all over again.—Glenn Clairmonte.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH
"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, October 19, with the Golden Text taken from I Corinthians: "The preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God" (1:18).

The following citations are included in the sermon:

Hebrews: "Let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, and our bodies washed with pure water" (10:22).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Glory be to God, and peace to the struggling hearts! Christ hath rolled away the stones from the door of human hope and faith, and through the revelation and demonstration of life in God, hath elevated them to possible at-one-ement with the spiritual idea of man and his divine Principle, Love" (p. 45).

Junipero Serra School Notes

There has been quite a lot going on lately at the Junipero Serra School. Last Thursday, the seventh grade gave a weenie roast for the eighth grade at the Villa Angelica. I am sure everyone enjoyed it very much. We had a treasure hunt, and it was pretty hard to find the treasure. The one who did finally get the treasure (a box of candy) was Peggy Carpenter.

Another important event happened last Sunday, when the Junipero Serra Football team played Watsonville. Sad to say, Watsonville won 12-0. The football team, with the help of Coach George Mosolf of Carmel, and Mr. Bechdolt, are doing very well. They sure look good in those new uniforms.

On Tuesday, October 14, there was a model show put on by the seventh and eighth grades. Among the entries were model homes, hotrods, and boats. Mr. Gray was the judge.

The girls of the seventh and eighth grades are putting on a puppet show on Monday and Tuesday, October 20 and 21. The puppet show will be about Little Red Riding Hood. The girls are working quite hard on their project.

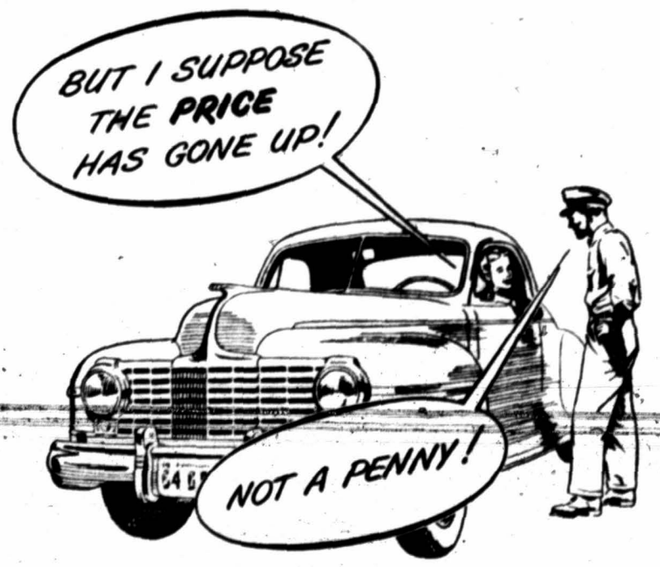
You know there have been many different compounds developed lately to improve motor oil—several of them by Shell Research. Well, now our scientists have gone further.

In New-Formula Golden Shell, they've combined the best of the new compounds. They've made this an oil that cleans your engine . . . keeps it clean . . . and lays down a long-lasting oil film. On every score, it means better engine protection!



Shell Research is pretty smart about keeping costs down, too. They've figured out ways to make this top-quality oil so we dealers can sell it for just 30 cents a quart! Plus tax, of course. So if you shop around, you'll find this New-Formula Golden Shell is far and away the best value in motor oil today.

CHAPTER VI
MEMORY CORNER

BY DAISY BOSTICK

One of the loveliest and most typical of Spanish architecture in Carmel is the building belonging to Mrs. Mary Goold. A two-story white stucco, it fronts on Ocean Avenue and extends back on San Carlos to Sixth Avenue. On the ground floor are offices for Doctors, a Dentist, a real estate company and a super-colossal market including a Music Shop. A sidewalk garden on the San Carlos side contains choice trees and shrubs. On the second floor are apartments with little projecting balconies flaunting brilliant red geraniums. The entrance to each apartment is through a roof garden which, through the loving efforts of Mrs. Goold, is a veritable Paradise of color and fragrance.

But in spite of the extremely modern building which now stands on that historic spot, the old one which preceded it had a charm all its own. It was rustic with shingled exterior, two-story, with balconies off of the upper part, extending over the entire sidewalks on the intersecting streets and supported by large thick redwood pillars. It was built by D. W. W. Johnston, later sold to Dr. A. A. Canfield and finally acquired by the Carmel Development Company. It operated under the name of Hotel Carmel and was used for that purpose several times under different managements, including that of Mrs. Agnes Signor who later made the picturesque Jorgenson Studio over into Hotel La Playa.

During the lifetime of Hotel Carmel it housed many and varied forms of business, besides being used for a hotel. Robert Erickson had his dairy there and Earl Graft succeeded him and at one time Peter Mawdsley, now our very efficient City Clerk, conducted a real estate office in the hotel.

About 1920 Charles Goold bought the property from the Development Company and he used it mainly for a stage and taxi office. On a piece of vacant land next door where the Lucky Boy market now stands was a horseshoe court and to it flocked the aged and unemployed for their daily entertainment. The grown-ups pitched their horseshoes and the teen-agers held boxing matches but the parents registered strong objections to the latter sport on the ground that it was a form of cruelty and that the kids spent too much money buying boxing gloxes. For a time Charlie Goold stepped into the breach by buying the gloves for the children.

Charlie owned and operated the stage line to Monterey and it was an imposing sight to see the driver pull away from the old wooden sidewalk, cracking his whip with many flourishes over his four prancing horses. We old-timers have nostalgic memories of those stages. We rocked and rolled over the bumps and boulders, through the dust clouds and over the hill to Monterey. That was before the hill was cut down to its present height, paved and made into a four-lane highway. Passengers on the incoming trains always found the smiling face of the stage driver awaiting them on the platform. Very tenderly you and your baggage were placed in the stage and with a Whoop-La and a Yo-Ho you were off for Carmel. Upon arriving there you were delivered to your home regardless of its distance from the center of town. The driver loaded up with your baggage, opened the gate, walked up the path, unlocked your door and lighted your coal oil stove for you. If the oil was low he might even return to the village and bring you an extra quart or two, and all these services including the trip from Monterey for a price of twenty-five cents. But all this is a diversion from the story of Hotel Carmel which we started out to write.

In front of the hotel in the middle of the street where the Soldiers' Memorial now stands was an old-fashioned watering trough with the traditional canopy over it. Men and beasties re-

MAN PLOWING

How plainly and how straight he writes the lines
Where yellow parchment fields are smoothly spread!
On acres, bent by knolls and cracked by rains,
That patient thrift has closely harvested,
The wave-like furrows pattern strange designs—
Symbol and line, the age-old plea for bread.

Ancient as hunger is the human need
For labor coupled with a simple faith.
Unmindful that his plow affirms his creed
And plodding centuries have proved its worth,
He writes the lines fear-sharpened eyes may read
With hope, as want and hunger stalk the earth.

—ETHEL FAIRFIELD WHITE.

DARK JOURNEY

I have gone the hill-road
Where joy will never wane.
I have gone the swamp-road
Where creep the snakes of pain.

On the hill-road of wonder,
On the swamp-road below
Your love has been the lamp-light
Which made my courage flow.

Your love has been the lamp-light,
Oh hold it high once more!
I struggle down the swamp-road
To reach an open door.

—LUCIA TRENT.

OCTOBER NIGHT

Sharp edges of low stars
Worn thin
Under the turning wind . . .
Black branches of pine,
Heaped with spilled shine
Caught from the drifted moon.

Crackle and brush of feet
Among dry stalks
Of the late-standing corn . . .
Small silent shapes of fur
That stir
To a sound—
The hollow woodwind of the round-eyed owl.

—GERTRUDE FLETCHER.

Have You Read . . . ?

BY GLENN CLAIRMONTE

Now that Stanford University Press is bringing out a new edition of Venetian Adventurer, by Henry H. Hart (F.R.G.S., etc), a larger public will be able to obtain this learned commentary on The Adventures of Messer Marco Polo.

Dr. Hart has personally visited many of the places which Marco knew and has himself translated the several manuscripts of the original work, besides studying the period exhaustively. As a result, his finished work is a contribution to scholarship.

It might have been better if Dr. Hart had addressed his book either to a popular or a scientific audience. As the pages turn you will discover that, while he takes it for granted that everyone knows as much as he does about the documents he consulted, he goes into considerable detail to inform the average reader of the historical background. He inserts many remarks about the superstitions and health conditions which must have presented alarming difficulties to travellers crossing the desert, and at the same time allows his scholarship to interfere with the pleasure of a reader coming upon the matter freshly. But he points up the significance in many passages — for instance, he discusses the change that might have been wrought in history if the Pope had sent one hundred Christian missionaries to Kublai's court when requested—and later reports that Christians had already penetrated to many of the Chinese provinces.

If you want a fascinating evening, take up this book, and an atlas, and Browning's poems, and Frederick J. Teggart's Rome and China (which Leonard Bacon, the unbearably intelligent poet, considers unbearably intelligent), and Donn Byrne's Messer Marco Polo, and Eugene O'Neill's Marco Millions, and your own particular copy of the Adventures themselves. Then start out on the journey and let yourself become imbedded in the life of the thirteenth century, seen through the marvelling eyes of a young man who appreciated the vagaries of human nature and who had also an awareness of the values of economic and religious influences upon the history of his time.

Anything which will arouse again the dormant interest of the reading public in such an astute character as Messer Marco deserves praise, for there is never too much wonder in any life, and the new dimension which an astounding book like Marco's presents is always welcome. There is plenty of reason for the prolonged popularity of Marco's accounts, although there were other manuscripts that won greater credit during his lifetime. But the magic of his viewpoint, objective while fully cognizant, still fans the spark of dream this year when men and women are priding themselves on being practical.

In 1907 John Masefield wrote this about Marco Polo:

". . . . The acquisition of knowledge, the accumulation of fact, is noble only in those few who have that alchemy which transmutes such clay to heavenly eternal gold. . . . The imginative possession is not measured in miles and parasangs, nor . . . accounts of birds and beasts. It is only the wonderful traveller who sees a wonder . . . The wonder of Marco Polo is this—that he created Asia for the European mind. . . .

"One feels the presence of Kublai all through the narrative, as the red wine, dropped into the water-cup, suffuses all . . . The imagination is only healthy when it broods upon the kingly and the saintly. In Kublai, the reader will find enough images of splendour to make glorious the temple of his mind. When we think of Marco Polo, it is of Kublai that we think; and, apart from the romantic wonder which surrounds him, he is a noble person, worth our contemplation. He is like a king in a romance. It was the task of a kingly nature to have created him as he appears in the book here."

$22,500 Subscribed To Chest Drive

After one week of the house to house canvas on the Monterey Peninsula for the Community Chest, the total sum subscribed last night was $22,500.00. The budget is $53,496.50, which means that less than 50 percent of the quota has been subscribed to date.

"It will be necessary for us to make a hard drive from now until the end of the campaign to reach our quota," said Murry Vout, chairman, last night. "Many people have not subscribed as much as they did a year ago and our quota this year is 20 percent more than in 1946. We are going to ask every person to give as much or more than last year.

"We also hope to have many more subscribers this year. Last year less than 12 percent of the population of the Peninsula subscribed to the Community Chest. It is our aim to double that this year. If we do it will mean that there will be a Community Chest sticker on a window of every house in the entire district. We believe every house should have a sticker, obtainable only by subscribing to the chest."

House to house canvas by workers is progressing nicely and the volunteers who are aiding the officials in raising the fund are meeting with splendid response.

Girl Scout News

The Carmel Girl Scouts are now organized for what promises to be a most successful year. Encouraged by the hearty response to the call for leaders, plans are under way for a year full of scout activities. However, a leader is still needed for an intermediate troop. Anyone who would like to help out may call Mrs. Lloyd Miller, 2210-M.

Troop leaders are: Troop 2—Mrs. Virginia Lawrence and Mrs. Mildred Vertin; Troop 4—Mrs. George Bestor and Mrs. Eugene Scheffer; Troop 10—Mrs. Julian von Meier and Mrs. Paul Chedester; Troop 27—Mrs. Charles Dawson and Mrs. John Westover; Troop 28—Miss Shirley Shively, Miss June Walker and Miss Marie Meyer; Troop 38—Mrs. Robert Vallon and Mrs. R. S. Sutton.

District members for the coming year are: Chairman, Mrs. Donnan Jeffers; secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Dunning; treasurer, Miss Audrey Walton; organization, Mrs. Lloyd Miller; training, Mrs. John Walsh; public relations, Mrs. Orville Rogers; camp, Mrs. Lillian McKenna; house, Mrs. C. J. Ryland and Miss Audrey Walton.

Dufur Back From F. B. I. School; Starts B.B. League

"We're very much pleased when our boys have the interest to improve themselves in their profession," Police Commissioner Allen Knight commented when Police Officer Woffard Dufur returned Saturday after completing a summer course at the F. B. I. Police School in Washington, D. C.

Dufur immediately got into harness, so that Police Chief Roy Fraties could leave Sunday for his long deferred vacation with his daughter and son-in-law, Major and Mrs. Gus Weiser in Oklahoma City, where Mrs. Fraties has been awaiting him.

In addition to taking up his duties in the police office, Dufur called a meeting this week to organize the adult basketball league.

Jo Mora

Joseph Jacinto Mora, 71, died Friday morning at a local hospital after an illness of several months during which time he courageously continued his sculpture and writing and illustrating work.

He was born in Montevideo, Uruguay, and after spending some years in the east of this country, he settled in Pebble Beach, where he became famous for his diaramas for the Will Rogers Memorial at Claremore, Oklahoma, and many other projects. He was a member of the Bohemian Club, where his statue of Bret Harte was placed. He is survived by his wife, Grace Needham Mora, by a son, Jo Mora, Jr., and by a daughter, Mrs. Patricia Janzan, who makes her home with her mother at Pebble Beach.

Private funeral services were held Saturday afternoon in the Paul Mortuary, inurnment following at the I. O. O. F. Columbarium in Salinas.

Only Voluntary Contributions Asked In Local Schools

Boxes to receive contributions for the Community Chest were placed in the offices of Carmel High School and Sunset this week so that students may contribute to the drive if they wish, Superintendent Stuart Mitchell announced this week.

Boxes will not be placed in individual rooms, nor competition encouraged between the classes, in view of the fact that parents will be solicited both at home and where they work, and those with several children would be unfairly taxed if pressure were placed on the students at school.

The policy of avoiding competitive solicitation in the schools for all charitable drives has been endorsed by the State P. T. A. after careful study, and will be followed in the Carmel schools, Superintendent Mitchell said.

BRUCE ARISS SPEAKER

Next Tuesday's guest speaker at Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's class in current literature will be Bruce Ariss, Peninsula artist. Members of the class and visitors will assemble at 7:30 p. m. in Room 11 of Sunset School, and informal discussion will follow Mr. Ariss' talk.

Imma Sumak Has Amazing Voice, Overwhelming, Alarming Beauty

BY R. ELLIS ROBERTS

A night in Granada is about the most inappropriate title that that could have been chosen for the performance put on last Tuesday evening by three exponents of Spanish dancing and by the Peruvian trio known as the Inca Taky: at the piano, looking, in spite of his excellent playing, extremely downcast, was Paco Avellan. Perhaps he felt, as at moments I did, that his lovely and accomplished dancers, Inesita, Martita and Alex were overbold in matching their familiar and mortal art beside the overwhelming and even alarming beauty of Imma Sumak. In the end, however, the combination of Spanish gypsy, gay, sorrowful, lively, and Peruvian Inca, hieratic, magical, insistently evocative, proved successful, if only by sheer contrast. Only the silliness of the title remained to confuse, with its suggestion of some conducted tour or platform lecture.

Inesita has, unfortunately, I think, been compared to Argentina; her whole personality is softer, more appealing, less challenging than Argentina's. Inesita is extraordinarily accomplished, and several of her performances—Los Piconeros, La Vida Breve, and the superb Gitana Mora—were masterpieces of interpretation. She is one of the most winning dancers I have seen since Adeline Genee: there is more light and air than heat in her dance, and it is a comfort after the rather over-heated manner of some gypsy dancing.

Alex and Martita make a fine team—they showed great skill in the arrangement of their dances, working up from the pleasant Malaguena and the showy but not really difficult La Corrida to the perfect movement and controlled beauty of the Cordoba. These two, in the rhythm of their dances, in gesture and approach recalled old manners, a more gracious world, and a quicker, keener life than that encouraged by the age of the automobile and the aeroplane.

None of the other artists should feel in the least jealous—any more, I hope, than do her two colleagues in the Inca Taky trio—by the fact that the triumph of the evening goes to Imma Sumak. Her amazing voice excites not only by its power and its range but by its sheer compulsive magic. One must say of her, as Owen Glendower boasted of himself, she can call spirits from the vasty deep; and when she calls, they come. The woman is a voice. There are unearthly qualities in her art, magical equivalents of the evocative qualities of great church music. These were most in evidence in the magnificent Song to the Sun. All her movements, beautifully and unselfishly supported by her colleagues, had the authority of primitive rite, the unrelenting sacrificial note which Stravinsky rendered in the Sacre du Printemps. Imma Sumak sings and moves as an instrument of forces which she controls only by obedience. I see some critic compared her to an orchid—I have never seen any one less vegetable or flower-like. She is a panther or one of the divinities that reigned on the Peruvian heights.

A word of praise must be given to the gorgeous costumes worn by all the artists. Several of the Spanish costumes were as beautiful in color and as graceful in design as any I have ever seen; Inesita's gown in Goyescas touched one's heart before she began her sorrowful dance. But the greatest praise must be given to the gorgeous costumes of the Peruvian trio. Their color, their design, their fierce audacity were breath-taking.

Dr. Thurman Talks On Man's Quest For Fulfillment

A capacity audience crowded the Church of the Wayfarer last Thursday evening to hear Dr. Howard Thurman, co-pastor of the San Francisco All People Church, deliver a stirring address under the sponsorship of the Council for Civic Unity. Prior to the open meeting, Dr. Thurman was guest of honor at a dinner of representative peninsula citizens held at La Ribera Hotel.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, pastor of the Church of the Wayfarer, who recalled the inspiration he had drawn from this nationally known speaker during his student days.

The theme of Dr. Thurman's remarks was "The Quest for Fulfillment", the long struggle by which man groping at first in primordial chaos and darkness, has sought self-realization through the ages. During this long period of seeking, while he has often been divided into factions, man has been guided by a dream of order, brooding over the chaotic stuff of life. At the very time when Napoleon's dream of conquest was throwing Europe into war and misery, Lincoln and Darwin, two spokesmen of the forces of enlightenment, appeared almost simultaneously in the world.

In the progress of man toward fulfillment of his destiny, the mind has been hampered by the slow development of our bodies and of our control over the physical aspects of our environment. Now that we have learned to unleash incalculable forces for our own destruction, the time is growing short within which we may work to reach the goal of order and rational relationships between man and his fellow men.

America was seen by the speaker as the custodian of the hope of humanity for integration and self-realization, comparatively sheltered as we have been for three hundred years from the forces of chaos elsewhere in the world. Protected by two oceans, sending our roots into every corner of the earth, the barriers that men have reared against mutual understanding and progress have had less effect upon our people than has been true in other countries which have been at the mercy of seekers after empire and individual power.

The speaker closed with a note of optimism when he said; "No wall that mankind has built that separates him from his fellows can abide the upward push of the creative stuff toward order and unity. As individuals push the walls down, to that degree do they make it possible for this creative process to get about its business and hasten the time when man will be able to look into the face of his fellow and be unafraid."

Carmel Story . . .

freshed themselves with its contents. Villagers used the slogan, "I'll meet you at the watering trough". I well remember the summer when Helena Wood Smith was found to be missing and search parties were organized. A detachment of cavalry was sent over from the Presidio of Monterey to assist in the search. They gathered together at that corner by the watering trough and it was a fearsome and exciting sight to see the riders and their horses milling around, getting their orders for the day and eagerly waiting to begin the search. Miss Smith's body was finally found by one of the search parties including Fred Bechdolt. It had been buried in the sand dunes and the murderer was quickly caught and brought to justice. That tragic incident and the start of World War I in Europe provided much excitement for the guests in the hotel that summer.

One winter night the village was aroused by the cry of "Fire!" and the jangling of the Fire Siren. The local fire department and the villagers turned out in force. Hotel Carmel provided a spectacular show; the old landmark was burning to the ground. At that time Robert Erickson and his wife, the former Irene Goold, had their living quarters on the second floor of the hotel. They had been spending the day at the Salinas Rodeo and returned to find their home a smoking ruin and with no possessions excepting the clothes they were wearing. Heroic efforts were made that night to salvage some of the building and to keep the fire from spreading. And I well remember the spectators drawing an apprehensive breath as Manuel Pereira handled a hose from the top of a high ladder which rested against an already crumbling wall. But all efforts failed. Hotel Carmel was doomed. Thus passed one of our much-loved Carmel landmarks. And for several years the ghost of the old building hovered over the site.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"Take Pen in Hand"

This column has been running for so long that its readers, in towns like ours all over the country, are beginning to "take pen in hand" and write us what they think.

Some of them take me over the coals for what I say—like the column I ran on planting alfalfa. Others write, "I liked your column yesterday, but...." All of them have different points of view.

From where I sit, that's the way it should be. Everybody's entitled to an opinion—and it's those very differences, and friendly criticism, that make for tolerance and better understanding—whether it's ideas on planting alfalfa or choosing between beer and cider.

The more folks air their differences right out in public, with a neighborly respect for the other person's liberties and point of view, the closer we are to the American principle of individual freedom—whether it's in a choice of crops or beverages.

University Women

Plans for study and activities during the coming year and reports on the workshop at Santa Cruz on October 4 occupied the members of the American Association of University Women at the opening business meeting last week at the Girl Scout house. Mrs. Thor Krogh, reporting on the round table on the status of women, emphasized the need for more women in government and for greater activity in community matters by educated women.

Miss Ruth Blanchard outlined the importance of attention to international relations in the present critical period. Mrs. Churchill Murray, state chairman of international relations in AAUW., recommended for information on these subjects the magazine, World Report, the weekly bulletins of the State Department and of the United Nations.

Miss Eleanor Mary Henry told of the discussion on radio listening with a view to improving programs on the air and developing a greater sense of responsibility to the public on the part of broadcasting companies. Mrs. J. O. Tostevin told of the need for research in living conditions for families of small income under present inflated prices.

Mrs. Gordon Beall, president, announced the November meeting to be held in Monterey with Dr. Margaret Swigart chairman of fellowships, in charge of the program. The book section, Mrs. Ted Durein, chairman, meets next Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Frances Whitehead in Pacific Grove. The study section on socialized medicine, led by Mrs. Tostevin, met on Wednesday morning at the leader's home. Miss Henry invited the members of A.A.U.W. to sign up for the radio listening group which has already had two meetings.

A social half hour getting acquainted with new members and renewing contacts after the summer was spent over light refreshments prepared by Miss Ruth Blanchard, hostess chairman, and her committee, Miss Eileen Brereton, Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. Jacqueline Crosby, Mrs. Charles Dawson, Miss Gertrude Rendtorff, and Mrs. Blanchard Steeves.

With Nancy Lofton

If you ask you may be taken to the sewing room in FRISBIE'S FURNITURE STORE on south Dolores where Mrs. Lucile Gore and her assistants are making very beautiful lamp shades of silk and taffeta and parchment. Mrs. Gore makes shades in the grand tradition with excellent workmanship on fine materials. For you she will make a shade of any size or shape in any material you wish. Mrs. Gore has made lamp shades all over the country, for the White House in Washington and Marshall Field in Chicago, and I'd be proud to walk out of the shop wearing one, myself.

The Monarch Food Company has been bringing excellent food to store counters ever since the company was formed in the first half of the last century to provision wagon trains going west from the banks of the Mississippi. In the GROCERY DEPARTMENT of the CARMEL DRIVE-IN MARKET on Dolores Street you'll find a wide array of Monarch Foods. A good idea for supper, by the way, with an array of Monarch vegetables, would be Rancher's Pride Chicken Fricassee or Boned Turkey, all ready to eat with no waste and very delicious, all packaged neatly in tin.

For only $1.98, an appealing price, Mr. Burke of the CARMEL HARDWARE STORE on Dolores can supply you with a vest pocket binocular of a power strong enough to bring the details of games or races close to your eyes. The binocular is a neat little instrument which folds away to pocket size when you're done gazing. Also the CARMEL HARDWARE has electric heaters of several types in stock. There's the reflector type, throwing waves of heat from a copper face, and the blower fan type, which should keep you warm all winter.

In THE SILVER THIMBLE on Dolores you'll find handsome travelling sets of lounging coat and matching pajamas in a soft rayon crepe which should pack easily in a small space. The sets come in white, beige and a vivid shrimp pink and they are quite handsome enough to stay home in as well as travel in. The pajama top, incidentaly, bears small pearl buttons, is nicely cut, and if I had one I'd wear it for a blouse too.

It seems almost as if the walls of WELLS' MUSIC SHOP in the Seven Arts Court on Lincoln Street are slowly being pushed out by all the new merchandise that's coming in, and the corners are bulging with records. Incidentally there are several corners full of children's records, all of them in non-breakable plastic with practically no surface noise. A prize possession of the shop is one of Licia Albanese's recordings bearing Miss Albanese's signature. She wandered in off Lincoln Street last week and autographed the record for Mrs. Wells. You'll find Frances McDonald's individual and unusual Christmas cards there too, but the most exciting thing in the shop is the gift folder with your face and your voice combined. The folder opens and there's a photograph of you taken by an outstanding Carmel photographer—or one of your own, if you wish—and with it a record of your voice. These records are permanent with metal bases and are professionally made. All in all, this is one of the best ideas for gladdening the hearts of distant parents or friends I've ever seen.

From the workshop of the Blair girls on Old Fisherman's Wharf is coming some of the most attractive jewelry in town. If you'll walk up the short flight of stairs in the Seven Arts Court on Lincoln to the CARMEL ART SHOP —and it's well worth the effort— you'll be rewarded by seeing the only display of the Blair jewelry in Carmel. Azure and gold earrings, freeform pins in gold and caramel and white, and shining hair barrettes are among their wares. Their gold is true and their color subtle and even their buttons are bewitching. Most golden of all is a tragic mask of a pin with matching earrings of the masks of comedy and tragedy.

This is a double-barrelled item from PUTNAM AND RAGGETT, on upper Ocean Avenue. First, fine blankets to fit single beds have just come in, and second, the price of these blankets is down. The single bed blankets are the fine Kenwood Arondac quality of 100% virgin wool, with a wide satin binding, in rose, green, gold, peach and blue. They cost $11.95. The double bed size, for $12.95, comes in the same colors and the same fine quality. For exceptionally luxurious sleeping you may have the Kenwood Famous blanket which comes now in only double bed size. This blanket has an exceptionally long nap and the depth and fleeciness of its pile are akin to that of a cloud, 100% virgin wool, of course, wide satin binding and frosted white, yellow, peach, pink, and turquoise for colors.

The soft serene colors of the desert are woven into many of the Navajo rugs in the CLAY LOCKETTS SHOP in the Mission Inn in Monterey. The rugs and the Indian Jewelry come directly from the Indians, and through wise and selective buying the shop has excellent and unusual examples of Indian art. You'll find there the choice rugs from the Wide Ruins Trading Post, which you may know from "Spin a Silver Dollar" by the Lippincotts. Many of the rugs are in traditional Navajo patterns in native vegetable dyes and others show the definite influence of traders—such as the Germantown rugs with their brilliant colors and the Two Gray Hills Rug with its uncharacteristic all-round border with a devil alley, but the rugs are all beautiful and the prices are surprisingly low. For around $30.00 you can buy a very beautiful rug. The saddle blankets are fine enough for Pegasus himself and cost from 11 to 18 dollars.

There are all sorts of interesting things to be found in LA DAME ROSE on upper San Carlos Street between Fifth and Sixth. Here are white nylon stockings, sheer yet durable. Here's a black silk crepe slip with lace atop and a bottom for $6.50 and a half and half affair with a white top, with lace, and a black skirt, with lace, for wearing under suits or particolored dresses. This is $5.95. Here's a non-inflammable bed jacket for incorrigible smokers, and nursing and maternity brassieres, specially fitted and specially comfortable. Lastly here's a new shipment of nylon pant-girdles, with slight boning, long zipper and detatchable crotch with one spare.

Birthday For Beverly Knox

Beverly Ann Knox was seven years old Saturday, October 11, and the event was celebrated by a gay party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Knox. An exciting feature of the party was the release of bright colored balloons from the balcony in the living room. There was a treasure hunt with prizes, and Mrs. Kathryn Lansdowne led the group in rhythm songs and singing games. Hallowe'en colors were used for table decorations and the birthday cake was inscribed "Happy Birthday to Bunnie" Beverly's pet name. After the cake and ice cream had been disposed of, Beverly opened her presents. Guests at the party were Susan White, Elizabeth Snite, Susanne Pilot, Airetta and Patricia Vandenburg, Betty and Mary Buffington, Roxanna Way, Carol Ann Platte, Heather Hamilton, Tweed Champe, Sandra Ammerman, Carole Leona Berger. Joan Hebert and Mrs. Marie Sendell of Montreal, Canada, were among the grown up guests, who also included Mrs. Anne Knox, Beverly's grandmother, Mrs. Charles Berkey, Mrs. Kathryn Lansdowne and Miss Helen Bohl.

Coleman-Burns Wedding

St. John's Chapel, Del Monte, was the setting for the lovely wedding of Gladys June Coleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Coleman of Carmel, and John Burns, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Burns, a pioneer Monterey family. The Reverend Dr. Theodore Bell officiated at the ceremony on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. White chrysanthemums and gladioli were massed among the palms on the altar and chancel. Mrs. William Swain was at the organ and Edith Anderson of Carmel was the soloist.

The bride chose white moire taffeta for her wedding gown, made with a short train and her veil was fingertip length. She carried her Rainbow bible with an orchid and satin streamers as a marker.

Attending the bride, as matron of honor, was her sister, Mrs. William V. Tumbleson, of Pacific Grove, who was gowned in lavendar moire taffeta and carried an old fashioned bouquet of lavendar stock and pink roses with the same flowers in her hair. Edward J. Burns, brother of the groom, stood as best man. Mrs. Samuel Coleman, the bride's mother, wore a blue suit with orchid corsage and left the church with Mr. Jack Dockstader, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, while the bride's father escorted the groom's sister, Carmelita Dockstader.

Following the ceremony a large reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman in Carmel. After Gladys had cut the bridal cake it was served by Mrs. H. C. Coleman and Mrs. V. H. Watson, while Miss Claire and Miss Ann Coleman served punch in the garden.

A large number of out-of-town guests attended, coming from San Jose, King City, Los Gatos and Moffett Field.

The newlywed Mrs. Burns left for her honeymoon in the south, in a modish green suit with black accessories. The Coleman family came to Carmel four years ago when Mr. Coleman was transferred from King City to the Carmel branch of the Monterey County Trust and Savings Bank. Gladys attended King City High School and San Jose State College. During the war she worked at Moffett Field for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics and for the past year has been secretary to H. G. Burnette of the Monterey County Trust and Savings Bank of Monterey.

John Burns was graduated from Monterey High School and attended St. Mary's College and after his second year there, entered the Army, serving in the Pacific theatre. Mr. Burns is now connected with Charmack and Chandler in Monterey.

Adelaide Schirmer

Adelaide Schirmer, 84, a resident of Carmel for the last 25 years, died October 11, at the Salinas Hospital, after a brief illness. She is survived by four brothers, Walter W. Schirmer of Carmel, Robert and Frank Schirmer of Wisconsin, and Oswald Schirmer of Berkeley, and also by a sister, Maude Schirmer of Wisconsin.

Services were held Tuesday at the Paul Mortuary, and inurnment was arranged at the Salinas Columbarium.

FIRE INSPECTION

Among other fire prevention activities for September, 28 fire inspections were made and 36 locations cleared of hazardous conditions under the supervision of Robert G. Leidig, fire marshall.

CHAPTER DEDICATED

The ceremony of the presentation and dedication of colors of the General Joseph Stilwell Chapter of the Auxiliary of Disabled Veterans was held at El Estero U.S.O. in Monterey Monday, October 13.

curriculum planning committee made up of Dr. Williams, Superintendent Mitchell and Principal Hull. They have arranged a day by day schedule of activities for the Dolores Street School but before it is turned over to Kump and Co. so they can fit the architectual plans for the new school to the requirements of the curriculum, the committee want expert opinion from educators in Sacramento and Berkeley, Mr. Mitchell said.

Other business was the retaining of George C. Bestor of Neill and Bestor in advisory capacity for the grading work on the school sites; the appointment of John Davis as inspector on the science classroom project, disapproval of the request of a film company for tne use of Sunset Auditorium for showing a series of 17 moving pictures.

Superintendent Mitchell presented an account of repairs, improvements and purchases made by the district and in discussing the upkeep of the plant, pointed out that five custodians are covering building footage that calls for seven.

"We have an unusually good group of custodians. Their spirit is good and they are good workers. Glen Goodwill was amazed that our gardens are maintained by such a small crew," he said.

HURT IN COLLISION

Janet Hoffman of Robles del Rio suffered mild concussion and swelling of the right side of her face, as a result of an automobile accident at Ocean and Dolores last Friday. She was in the sedan driven by J. G. Hoffman, when a 1946 Chevrolet convertible coupe, driven by Kenneth Melrose, Jr., collided with it. She was treated at the Community Hospital before she was driven home.

GRADUATES FROM STANFORD

Willis Reilly Richey, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Richey of Dolores at 3rd, graduated from Stanford University at the close of the summer session, having concentrated on accumulating units ever since his separation from the Army. After studying at Piedmont High School, for 37 months he was with the Anti-Aircraft 357th Division, in England, France, Belgium and Germany.
